COLLEGE GOES TO HILL SITE

A Penny for your Thoughts

Now that the people have had a few days to think about the President's trip to Europe, we asked several people: Do you think the trip was beneficial in any way?

Mrs. David Dickey, 2065 Via

Riviera, Palos Verdes:
"Certainly in Germany it was at least successful. The trip pointed out the popularity of the President with the people of Europe, but as far as solving any problems, I don't think it was meaningful."

Mrs. Max Webber, 1636 Via

Arriba, Palos Verdes:
"There were some rather vital things that needed his attention at home, and while I realize that the trip was planned in advance, and perhaps even necessary, I think he could have done more by staying at home."

Dr. Max Webber, 1636 Via

Arriba, Palos Verdes:
"His services were needed in the United States. As far as I can ascertain, he accomplished very little in Europe. I can't name one new ally, or list one problem that has been solved as a result of the trip."

Mrs. John Casey, 350 Palos

Verdes Blvd.:
"I don't think the problems at home could have been solved during the time he was gone. He certainly did not do any harm in making the trip, and it brought Mr. Khrushchev to Berlin very quickly."

Mrs. T. R. Corozza, 547 Calle

Mayor:
"It probably was not a successful trip — either for the United States as an individual nation or for any new allies. The domestic problems should be the President's first concern at this time."

Negro Family Puts Deposit On New Home

Agreement on conditions sought by representatives of integration groups in the Southland have been reached between developer Don Wilson and representatives of those groups, it was announced here Friday night.

The announcement, made in Wilson's Gardena office following an afternoon-long conference between the parties involved, was hailed as a major step in the direction of ending the growing tension in the developer's Southwood Royale tract in Torrance which has been the scene of picketing and demonstrations for nearly a year.

City May Kill New Ordinance

A controversial ordinance which restricted circulation of non-residents in the Southwood Riviera tract may be killed by the City Council Tuesday night—one week after its adoption.

The urgency ordinance adopted by the City Council Tuesday night after residents of the Southwood area complained of weekend disturbances, was immediately challenged by the Congress of Racial Equality and the American Civil Liberties Union and a temporary restraining order was issued in Los Angeles Superior Court Friday halting enforcement of its restrictive provisions.

MAYOR ALBERT ISEN told THE HERALD yesterday that the apparent need for the ordinance had been eliminated with the agreement between developer Don Wilson and representatives of NAACP and the UCR. NAACP officials said demonstrations at the tract planned by that group would be canceled.

Isen said he would recommend to the councilmen that the ordinance be repealed.

DR. CHRISTOPHER L. Taylor, head of both the NAACP and the United Civil Rights Committee, immediately called off plans for a demonstration scheduled at the tract this weekend, and Torrance Police Chief Percy G. Bennett canceled plans for the heavy patrols in the area set up two weeks ago to avert trouble during a similar demonstration.

While Dr. Taylor said the NAACP and UCR would not mount demonstrations this weekend, Earl Walters, president of the Congress of Racial Equality said his group would maintain token pickets at least this weekend. For one thing, he explained, officials might not be able to call off all of the pickets which might be headed for Torrance over the weekend. He promised, however, that the sit-in, lie-in technique would be abandoned.

BEFORE ISSUANCE of a temporary injunction against the city's new curfew ordinance in the area, CORE officials had promised some new and different demonstration techniques to protest the restrictions.

TORRANCE'S GIRL . . . Marlane Norsoph, Miss Torrance, will be vying for additional honors in Los Angeles July 25 and 26 when she competes in the California portion of the Miss World Beauty Pageant. ## Miss Torrance Seeks Title of Miss World

Marlane Norsoph, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Norsoph of 19322 Beckworth, will compete in Los Angeles late this month in runoff for the title of Miss World.

The girl selected in Los Angeles will go to Huntington, West Virginia, to compete for the title of Miss United States and the contestant winning this title will travel to London for the Miss World Beauty Pageant.

Marlane is presently reigning as Miss Torrance, a title she received in April after competing with 16 other girls. She is being sponsored in the Los Angeles pageant by the Torrance Junior Chamber of Commerce which contributed $125 for a week's lodging at the Biltmore Hotel, a hairdresser, meals and chaperones.

TODAY, MARLANE and pageant will be introduced at the Angel baseball game in Dodger Stadium. On July 25 and 26, Los Angeles television station KCOP, channel 13, will televise the pageant from 9 to 11 p.m.

The local girl is the only contestant in the pageant representing a Southwest or South Bay city. A girl from the peninsula is competing in the event but she is not representing a city.

Born in Los Angeles, the 18-year-old El Camino College coed is planning a career as a professional singer and television actor. She was graduated from North High School last year and is presently majoring in music at El Camino.

SHE HAS sung at various supper clubs in Nevada and Orange County. Marlane sings jazz and lists her favorite singer as Peggy Lee. "I also love Frank Sinatra," she claims.

Marlane's musical training started when she was about 10 years old when she started studying the piano. At the age of 13 she started taking voice lessons. Her interest in music perhaps originated with her father who sang for several years after graduation from high school.

SHE HAS one brother, Robert, 16, who three weeks ago organized a combo band which plans on playing at parties, dances and "just for fun." Robert plays the guitar in the rock and roll band.

Land Costs Still Could Snag Choice

By JERRY REYNOLDS

Trustees of the California State Colleges selected Palos Verdes as the site of the new state college. Following adoption of the resolution on the site, the board voted to change the name from South Bay State College to the California State College at Palos Verdes.

Friday's vote ended an 18-month battle over the site of the college. The resolution instructed the State Board of Public Works to acquire 175 contiguous acres from within a 339-acre parcel bounded by Crest and Highridge Roads.

ABOUT HALF of the area is zoned for scientific research and development, while the remainder is residential. Portions of the R-1 zone are now being graded for home sites, potentially raising the values.

The Trustees adopted the site resolution after the Campus Planning Committee heard reports on four conditions attached to the Palos Verdes site. The final vote was 13-3, with trustees Paul Spencer, Daniel Rider and Allen Sutherland dissenting. All raised doubts about the availability of land and the problems of community relations.

DR. GLENN S. DUMKE, chancellor of the state colleges, told the Campus Planning Committee that his office had studied all four conditions attached to the June resolution approving the Peninsula site. He said his office was satisfied that the Peninsula area met all the requirements.

Dumke submitted the results of traffic access and soil studies and said both were adequate. All zoning problems had been resolved and utility service was sufficient, the chancellor said.

On the question of community support, Dumke admitted it was divided. "There are more people for us than people who oppose us," Dumke told the Trustees. He cited a long list of statistics to support his contention, but preface his remarks that all outside the Peninsula had been eliminated.

TRUSTEE Daniel Ridder, himself a resident of Rolling Hills, refuted the chancellor's statements. He said he had had a number of telephone calls and personal conversations, none of which favored the Peninsula site.

During the committee meeting, Dumke told the members that it was the wish of his office to remain outside the scientific research and development zone, but it was impossible to do so. He added that a portion of the SR & D land would have to be included in the site.

Alibi of Suspect Checked

A husky 37-year-old Torrance construction worker arrested for the kidnap-rape of a 14-year-old Signal Hill girl may be eliminated as a suspect in the death and disappearance of two Torrance girls, police reported yesterday.

William J. Brunner, who lived at 2755 Arlington Ave., was arraigned Friday in Long Beach Municipal Court on charges of kidnapping, rape, and assault.

He was questioned about the disappearance of Karen Lynn Tompkins here in 1961 and the rape-murder of Dorothy Gale Brown a year ago. Brunner denied knowledge of the two tragedies and said he was working at the time. A check of employment records is being made with his company in Sacramento.

He was arrested a few hours after the Signal Hill girl defied his command and copied down the license number of his vehicle after she had been attacked in a Long Beach area oil field.

Clues to Shooting Screened

The shooting of a 59-year-old Negro at the Torrance-Redondo Beach city line Tuesday remained a mystery yesterday as investigators for the Sheriff's office and Redondo Beach Police Department continued to retrace recent movements of the victim.

One lead being followed closely is the report that Chauncey S. Mitchell, who was last traced to a residence at 1017 W. 141st St., had recently won — and then lost — about $1,000 at a Gardena poker club.

Also being checked was the discovery of a safety deposit box rented by Mitchell in an East Los Angeles bank. Mitchell, who has been clinging to life at Little Company of Mary Hospital despite evidence that he received three shots from a .38-caliber pistol in the base of his skull, was found by a workman on his way home Tuesday evening west of Redbeam Avenue and north of Sepulveda Boulevard, just inside the Redondo Beach city limits.
